

Do you want to learn about your woodlands and how to become a good forest steward? If so, subscribe now!

You and Your Forest: Informational newsletter series

A series of newsletters for those interested in learning about the basics of forest stewardship.

You and Your Forest informational letter series can help you begin the learning process without leaving the comfort of your home. The letter series does not require any previous knowledge of forests or forestry.

If you sign up now, starting in mid-February, an 8 page issue will be sent to you via email or hard copy, every two weeks through mid-May on woodland and forestry topics including agroforestry practices, such as growing mushrooms and ginseng in your woodlands and much more! Each segment builds upon the content of the previous segments.

Topics included in the free newsletter series

- Forest Ecology
- Protecting Your Forest Assets
- Agroforestry & Forest Enhancement
- Enhancing Forests for Wildlife
- Forest Management
- Sawtimber Management
- Forest Invasive Species

So whether you have 5 acres or 500, spend those cold winter months in the comfort of your home learning about your woodlands! Feel free to share this opportunity with friends and family!

All forest landowners and interested individuals are invited to participate in this free letter series. For further information, or to register, call Cornell Cooperative Extension 518-622-9820

The letter series is a collaboration among the Agroforestry Resource Center of Cornell Cooperative Extension of Greene County, New York City Department of Environmental Protection, U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service and the Watershed Agricultural Council's Forestry Program. Cornell Cooperative Extension provides equal program and employment opportunities.
